

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An illumination apparatus has a frame with a plurality of fins, at least one thermally conductive sheet and at least one illumination module. The illumination modules are positioned on the frame, and the thermally conductive sheets are positioned between the frame and the illumination modules. Thus, the illumination modules generate light beams and heat, which is carried away by the frame with a plurality of fins.